

NAGINDAS KHANDWALA COLLEGE (MKES) partners with CSR Diary (www.csrdiary.com) to introduce course credits for volunteering hours. Every student at our college will be given an opportunity to volunteer. Certificates will be issued by CSR diary. Student volunteers will get full credit for such volunteering activities (Community services: Acts performed for Swachh Bharat, Medical Camps, Blind Schools, Orphanage homes, etc.. are eligible as Community Services: Volunteering deeds).

This is probably the first instance in India where students are given credits for volunteering. The management at Nagindas Khandwala college is proud to announce this strategic tie-up and is keen to harness the power of skill based student volunteering to achieve peace, growth, development and inclusion.

CSR Diary will award a certificate to each student for every volunteering activity and the count for such volunteering activities will be publicly displayed on CSR Diary.com

Your college has already included all our Volunteers at NSS to be eligible to receive full credit and claim their Volunteering Certificates on www.csrdiary.com. All students at our college are requested to take full credit for their Volunteering hours and claim their certificates from CSR Diary (www.csrdiary.com)

CSR Diary: The vision of CSR Diary is a world where volunteering is recognized as a credit based activity at education institutes. And volunteering opportunities exists for every student across the world. The strategic framework is the first of its kind focussing on harnessing the power of student volunteering to achieve peace, growth, development and inclusion. The framework focuses on skill based volunteering.

The strategic framework further appeals to governments to support education institutes in their endeavour to support volunteering and society at large

CSR Diary maintains a neutral platform and issues audited / checked certificates for every volunteering activity. The volunteer is free to select any cause at any geography and support any cause that is close to her / his heart. *

CSR Diary is the first gamification platform where participants are encouraged to compete in teams for maximum hours volunteered.
