NKARE SOCIAL CELL EVENTS FOR ACADEMIC YEAR 2026-27

INTRODUCTION:

NKARE Social Cell is a student-driven initiative committed to creating a positive social impact through awareness, service, and community engagement. The cell actively organizes fundraising activities and social initiatives with the aim of supporting meaningful causes and encouraging students to contribute towards society. Through events like donation drives, environmental campaigns, and awareness programs, NKARE promotes values of empathy, responsibility, and teamwork. It serves as a platform where students not only help the community but also develop leadership, coordination, and social responsibility skills.

Events held in academic year 2026-27

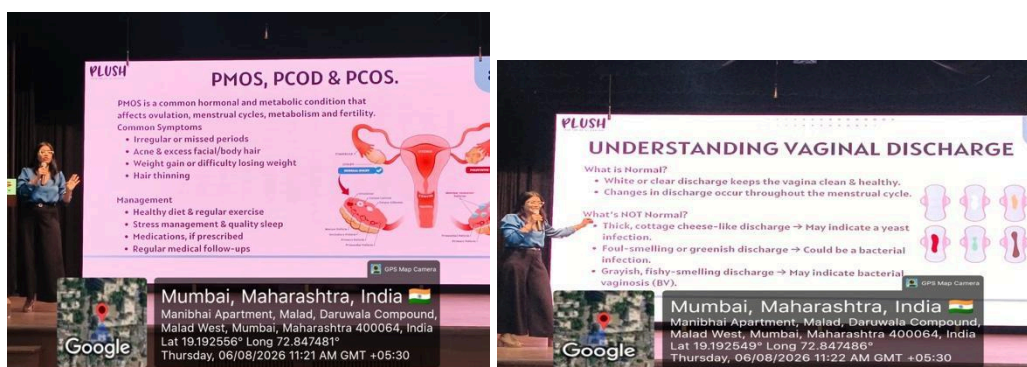

1. Menstrual Hygiene Awareness seminar in collaboration with WDC and Plush:

Date: 06/08/2026

Venue: College Auditorium

NKARE Social Cell and the Women Development Cell of Nagindas Khandwala College, in collaboration with PLUSH, successfully conducted a Menstrual Hygiene Workshop to promote awareness, education, and open conversations surrounding menstrual health. The session, conducted by Dr. Pradnya Shetty, provided valuable insights into menstrual hygiene, healthy practices, and making informed choices. As part of the initiative, approximately 2,000 sanitary pads were distributed to students, further emphasizing the importance of accessible menstrual care. The workshop aimed to break social taboos, encourage informed discussions, and empower students with practical knowledge to manage menstrual health with confidence, and awareness.

2. Stationary Packing and Distribution Drive:

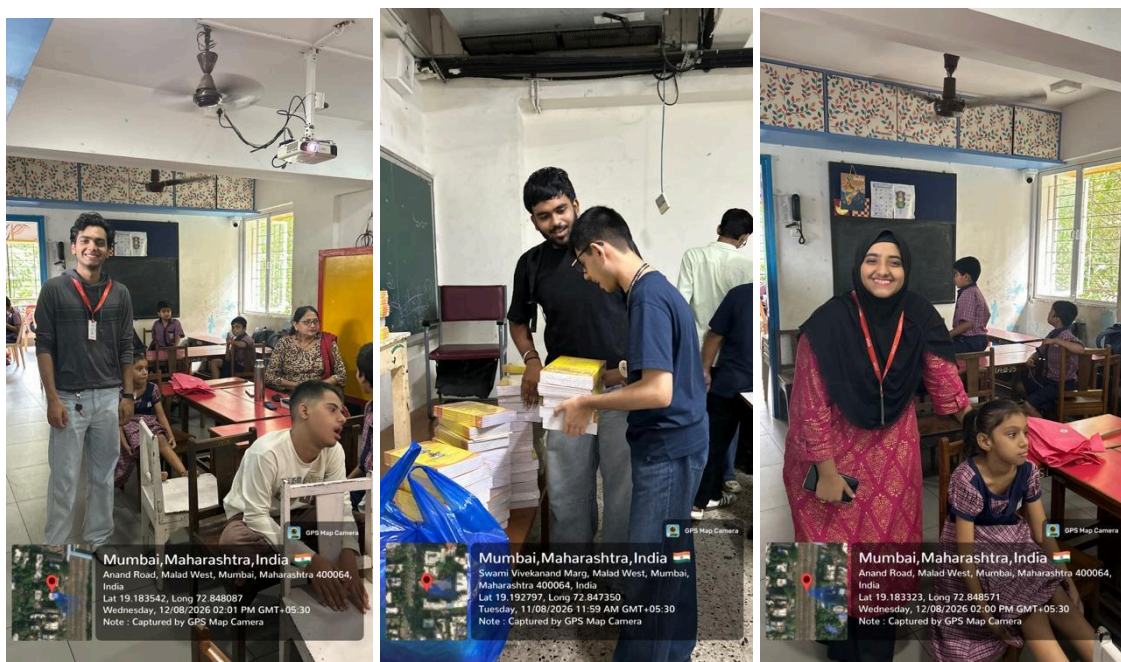

Date: 11th and 12th August, 2026

NKARE Social Cell organized a Stationery Packing and Distribution Drive with the objective of making essential educational resources more accessible to students and extending meaningful support to the community. The initiative involved volunteers coming together to collect, sort, organize, and carefully pack 300 stationery kits. Each kit was thoughtfully prepared with useful academic resources, including books, notebooks, writing materials, and other essential stationery items, ensuring that the students received resources that could support their regular learning activities.

Following the packing drive, the kits were distributed to the students of V.D. Indian Society for Mentally Challenged, Malad West, a special education institution serving students with intellectual and developmental disabilities. The distribution was planned not only to provide educational materials but also to create a meaningful interaction between the volunteers and the students. Volunteers actively participated in the distribution, engaging with the students and ensuring that the kits reached them with care and encouragement.

The initiative highlighted the importance of making educational resources available to every learner and promoting a more inclusive and supportive learning environment. Through this on-ground effort, NKARE Social Cell aimed to combine community service with educational support, reinforcing the values of empathy, inclusion, dignity, and giving back to society.

3. Rakhi Sale Drive:

Date: 19th, 20th, 21st August, 2026

NKARE Social Cell set up a Rakhi Sale Stall at Nagindas Khandwala College as part of an initiative that combined celebration with social responsibility. The stall featured a variety of handmade and thoughtfully curated rakhis, giving students and visitors an opportunity to choose something special for Raksha Bandhan while contributing to a meaningful cause.

The stall became a space where the festive spirit of Raksha Bandhan came together with the spirit of giving. Volunteers were involved in setting up the stall, arranging the rakhis, interacting with visitors, promoting the initiative, and managing the sales throughout the drive. Each purchase carried a purpose beyond the festival, as the proceeds generated from the Rakhi sale were later utilized towards a social cause.

The initiative highlighted how even a small festive purchase can contribute towards something larger. It encouraged community participation, responsible giving, and social awareness, while allowing volunteers to experience the planning and execution involved in conducting a cause-oriented sale. Through the Rakhi Sale, NKARE Social Cell turned a celebration of relationships into an opportunity to extend that spirit of care and giving to the wider community.

4. Rakhi Celebration at Police Station:

Date: 28th August, 2026

NKARE Social Cell, in collaboration with the Women Development Cell (WDC), celebrated Raksha Bandhan with the local police community by visiting three different police station locations. The initiative was planned as a warm gesture of appreciation and gratitude towards the officers who work throughout the year to ensure the safety and well-being of the community.

During the visits, volunteers interacted with the police personnel, tied rakhis, and shared the festive spirit with them. What began as a simple celebration turned into a meaningful exchange of warmth, conversations, and appreciation. The atmosphere at each location was welcoming and conducive to genuine interaction, making the celebration feel personal rather than ceremonial.

The initiative provided volunteers with an opportunity to acknowledge the efforts of police personnel and build a sense of connection with the community beyond the usual boundaries of service. Through this celebration, NKARE Social Cell and WDC aimed to convey that gratitude, respect, and togetherness can make even a small celebration meaningful.
